About the Deal

^ About the acquisition and what it means

Refer to the About the Opportunity section for more information and to learn more about Nuvei.

Do you feel the purchase price adequately reflects the value of the assets and platform you’ve built? What alternatives did the Board consider? Did you run a full sales process?

- The purchase price represents a 44% premium to our closing unaffected share price on June 8, 2026 and values the company at $2.75 billion.
- This process began with an unsolicited inbound interest and is a testament to the strength of the platform we have built, our differentiated assets, and positioning in a large, growing opportunity.

If I own Payoneer shares, do I have to do anything to receive the cash? When will I receive the cash?

- The transaction still needs to close and remains subject to approval by Payoneer's shareholders, required regulatory approvals, and other customary closing conditions.
- If the transaction closes, shareholders will receive detailed instructions from your broker regarding the process, timing, and payment mechanics. No action is required at this time.

Can I continue to trade PAYO stock?

- Payoneer remains an independent publicly traded company until closing, at which point Payoneer becomes a private company. PAYO stock will continue to trade on the Nasdaq until closing.
- Shareholders may continue to trade PAYO stock unless you hold material non-public information ("MNPI"), in which case you should not trade in Payoneer securities or adopt a trading plan relating to Payoneer securities (10b5-1 Plan) regardless of whether a trading window is open. Payoneer directors, officers and employees and their household members are subject to the trading windows defined in Payoneer's Insider Trading Policy.
- As a reminder, it is a violation of the U.S. federal securities laws for any person to buy or sell securities, or to tip others to trade in securities, if the person is in possession of MNPI. Furthermore, Payoneer's Insider Trading Policy prohibits employees (and members of their households and others, as more fully described in the policy) from engaging in transactions in Payoneer securities while aware of MNPI. For more information, please review Payoneer's Insider Trading Policy.

When will this transaction close?

- Expected closing is mid-2027, subject to approval by Payoneer's shareholders, receipt of required regulatory approvals, and other customary closing conditions.

What are the milestones between announcement and closing? Which regulatory approvals are required? Could regulatory approvals delay closing? What happens if regulators ask for additional information or approvals? What happens if closing is delayed after signing?

- Expected closing is mid-2027, subject to approval by Payoneer's shareholders, receipt of required regulatory approvals, and other customary closing conditions.
- We will provide updates as we progress towards closing, including if there are any updates to the timeline.

What happens if this doesn't close?

- If the transaction doesn't close, Payoneer will continue operating as a public company. Our strategy and ambitions remain unchanged.

What will John's role / the role of Corporate Forum be going forward?

- John and the entire executive leadership team are continuing in their current roles and are focused on leading the team through close, which is expected in mid-2027.
- They are confident in the opportunity, in building something stronger and more capable with Nuvei, and want to be part of that.
- Our people are key to our success and are an important part of the asset Nuvei is acquiring.

Integration details

Will anything change between now and closing? What will happen to Payoneer (as a brand, platform)? What happens to our strategy and roadmap? What will happen to teams and functions? What will happen with our existing offices / footprint? Can we act like one company before closing?

- No immediate changes are anticipated before closing.
- Until then, Payoneer remains an independent publicly traded company and it is business as usual - continue executing on our 2026 OKRs, your current objectives and delivering for customers.
- Specific integration plans will be developed and will be shared as they are ready.

When will integration decisions be shared?

- Specific integration plans will be developed and will be shared as they are ready.
- Until closing, Payoneer remains an independent publicly traded company and it is business as usual - continue executing on our 2026 OKRs, your current objectives and delivering for customers.

How should we think about developing integrated product roadmaps where there are overlapping / complementary / differing capabilities and customers?

- The key strategic rationale for the transaction is bringing together complementary payment capabilities from Nuvei and Payoneer.
- Specific integration plans will be developed and will be shared as they are ready.

Is the current strategy and org structure being open for review under Advent/Nuvei?

- Until closing, Payoneer remains an independent publicly traded company and it is business as usual - continue executing on our 2026 OKRs, your current objectives and delivering for customers.

When will we know more about what to expect from sign-to-close?

Here's a simple look at what comes next:

- June 2026 - the deal was announced: The agreement between Payoneer and Nuvei was made public. This is just the beginning of the process. Nothing changes for you yet.
- Around August–September 2026 (estimate) - Shareholders Vote: Payoneer's shareholders will vote to approve the deal. This is a required step before anything can be finalized.
- Between the Shareholders Vote and Closing - Integration planning begins. Once shareholders approve, dedicated integration teams will begin working on planning for the future. This includes:
 - Thinking through how the two companies will work together organizationally
 - Establishing a transition timeline
 - Ongoing conversations between Payoneer and Nuvei teams as needed
 - Sharing integration plans more broadly as they become ready
- Around Mid-2027 (estimate) - Deal Officially Closes: Once all approvals are in place - including regulatory sign-offs - the deal formally closes and Payoneer becomes part of Nuvei.

What does this mean for you in the meantime? No immediate changes are anticipated before closing. Until closing, Payoneer remains an independent publicly traded company and it is business as usual - continue executing on our 2026 OKRs, your current objectives and delivering for customers - same focus, same teams, same goals.

Please note: all dates are approximate and subject to approval by Payoneer's shareholders, receipt of required regulatory approvals, and other customary closing conditions. We'll keep you updated as things progress.

What this means for you

Jobs, internal mobility and employment

Will my role, team, or manager change before closing?

- We do not currently anticipate any role, team, or management changes as a result of the proposed transaction before closing.
- For now, nothing changes in our day-to-day role, priorities, or expectations. Payoneer remains an independent public company until closing.
- Our focus remains the same: serve our customers, execute on our strategic plans, and deliver against our 2026 OKRs.

What happens to my job after closing?

- Together with Nuvei, we will begin planning for how the combined company will operate following the closing, including with respect to organizational design, reporting structures, roles, and talent needs. This does not mean everything will change. Some areas may change very little, while others may be integrated with Nuvei's teams or functions over time. Maintaining strong talent and critical expertise will continue to be a priority as plans are developed.

Will my job be eliminated?

- We do not currently anticipate any role changes as a result of the proposed transaction before closing.
- Together with Nuvei, we will begin planning for how the combined company will operate following the closing, including with respect to organizational design, reporting structures, roles, and talent needs. This does not mean everything will change. Some areas may change very little, while others may be integrated with Nuvei's teams or functions over time. Maintaining strong talent and critical expertise will continue to be a priority as plans are developed.

Can my reporting line or scope change without my job changing?

- We do not currently anticipate any role or scope changes as a result of the proposed transaction before closing.
- Together with Nuvei, we will begin planning for how the combined company will operate following the closing, including with respect to organizational design, reporting structures, roles, and talent needs. This does not mean everything will change. Some areas may change very little, while others may be integrated with Nuvei's teams or functions over time. Maintaining strong talent and critical expertise will continue to be a priority as plans are developed.
- Any such changes would be assessed thoughtfully and communicated clearly.

Could my job change locations?

- We do not currently anticipate role location changes as a result of the transaction before closing.
- Together with Nuvei, we will begin planning for how the combined company will operate following the closing, including with respect to organizational design, reporting structures, roles, and talent needs. This does not mean everything will change. Some areas may change very little, while others may be integrated with Nuvei's teams or functions over time.

- Any such changes would be assessed thoughtfully and communicated clearly.

What if I'm on a visa, work permit, or in the middle of a planned relocation?

- For employees who are on a visa or work permit, or have an approved relocation or location change in progress, those plans are expected to continue. Specific questions or concerns related to immigration status, work authorization, or timing of a move, can be directed to HRBPs or People Partners for guidance.

If my job is eliminated, what happens? Will I receive severance? What happens to my unvested RSUs and unvested stock options?

- If a role is eliminated for business reasons (for example, due to organizational changes or redundancy), employees will be eligible for severance and related benefits, subject to applicable policies and local law.
 - For 12 months following deal close, severance will be provided under Payoneer's severance policy, or, if greater, applicable statutory requirements.
- We will share clear details of Payoneer's severance policy by July 31 so employees have a clear understanding of what they would receive upon an involuntary termination of their employment for business reasons. For clarification, July 31 refers only to when we will share details of the existing severance policy - it is not tied to any planned changes.
- For clarity:
 - Severance applies only to involuntary terminations for business reasons (job elimination).
 - Severance does not apply if you resign voluntarily or are terminated for performance or misconduct.
 - There is no change to the treatment of unvested RSUs and unvested stock options upon an involuntary termination as a result of the announced transaction - the same terms continue to apply. If your employment is involuntarily terminated, any RSUs or stock options that have not vested as of your termination date are forfeited and canceled in full, with no payment or compensation.
 - Eligible employees may have to comply with certain requirements to receive severance.
- If an employee's role is impacted, they will receive individual communication outlining next steps and applicable payments and benefits.

Will my years of service or seniority be recognized?

- Yes. Your service with Payoneer before closing will continue to be recognized after the transaction for most employment-related purposes, such as benefits eligibility and vesting, and severance.
- This means you will not start from "day one" again - your prior service will carry over under the new company's benefit programs.
- There are some limited exceptions (for example, certain equity or legacy plans), and service will not be counted in a way that results in double benefits.
- If any changes affect how service is recognized for specific programs, we will communicate those clearly.

If I resign, does anything change because of the transaction?

- No. If someone chooses to resign, their pay, bonus eligibility, and equity will be handled the same way they would be today, under the existing terms of the applicable plans, award agreements, and local policies. The transaction does not change how voluntary resignations are treated.

I've recently joined, does this change anything for me?

- No. Your role, onboarding experience, and expectations remain the same. We recognize this may feel like an uncertain time to join, and we'll ensure you're supported and kept informed.

Compensation and benefits

Will my salary, compensation, or benefits change as a result of the transaction?

- No. For at least 12 months following close, your base salary and target bonus opportunity will remain at levels no less favorable than what you have today.
- Your overall benefits will also remain broadly comparable to what you have today during this period.
- Payoneer may continue to make changes in the normal course of business that are not related to the transaction.
- If and when any changes are considered, they will be communicated clearly and in advance.

What could change over time?

- Over time, we would expect compensation and benefits programs to be reviewed and, where appropriate, aligned with Nuvei's compensation practices. This does not mean that all programs will change - some may change very little or not at all - while others may evolve to support consistency across the combined company.

Will my compensation be reviewed in 2027?

- Yes. Given the expected timing of the transaction, we plan to follow our regular compensation review cycle in Q1 2027.

- After closing, compensation processes will be determined by the combined company and may evolve over time, including potential alignment to Nuvei's practices. Regardless, the intent is to remain market competitive and continue to attract and retain talent, and any changes will be communicated clearly in advance.

Does the transaction affect commission plans or other sales incentives?

- No changes are expected to commission plans or sales incentives before closing. It remains business as usual - continue focusing on your goals and delivering for customers.
- For at least 12 months following closing, target cash incentive opportunities (including commission plans where applicable) will be maintained at levels no less favorable than those in place prior to closing.
- Over time, commission and incentive plans may be reviewed as part of the integration, and any changes would be communicated clearly in advance.

Will I still receive a bonus for 2026?

- Yes. Employees remain eligible for a bonus covering the full 2026 performance year, even if the transaction closes during 2026.
- 2026 bonuses will be determined based on our financial performance for the full year and paid on the normal annual bonus payout schedule.

Will retention bonuses be offered as part of the transaction?

- Retention bonuses are not being offered broadly. In limited cases, they may be used to address specific business needs. Any such arrangements will be communicated directly to affected employees.
- We remain focused on offering competitive overall compensation and benefits, and on supporting employees through this period with clarity and consistency.

What happens to my vested RSUs, vested stock options, shares I purchased through ESPP or other Payoneer shares I already own?

- As part of the proposed transaction, all Payoneer shares will be cashed out at the transaction price shortly after closing pursuant to the terms of the merger agreement.
- This conversion happens automatically at closing — no action is required on your part.
- This includes:
 - Vested RSUs that have not yet been settled into shares,
 - Vested stock options that have not yet been exercised,
 - Shares purchased through the ESPP; and
 - Any Payoneer shares you already own.
- With respect to vested but unexercised stock options, the cash proceeds that you receive with respect to each underlying share will reflect the excess of the transaction price less any applicable exercise price.
- To the extent that the exercise price on unvested options is greater than the transaction price, no cash proceeds are remitted, and the options lapse. No action is required. If shares are held in a brokerage account (such as E*TRADE), the cash proceeds will be deposited automatically into employee accounts at closing, and the shares will be removed.

What happens to my unvested RSUs and stock options?

- Unvested RSUs and stock options will continue to vest on their existing schedules prior to closing, in accordance with the terms of your grant.
- At closing, unvested RSUs would be converted into a cash-based equivalent award in the combined company.
- At closing, unvested stock options would be converted into a cash-based equivalent award in the combined company, with the cash amount in respect of each cash-based equivalent award equaling the total number of underlying stock options multiplied by the excess of the transaction price less any applicable exercise price.
- You do not receive the unvested value at closing — the awards continue to vest according to their original terms.
- The vesting schedule applicable to each converted award will remain the same as the existing award subject to continued employment through the applicable vesting date.

What happens to my ESPP contributions if the share purchase hasn't happened before closing?

- No additional offering periods will commence following the date hereof.
- The offering period in effect as of the date hereof will continue normally and payroll deductions in respect hereof will continue in accordance with participant elections.
- If the proposed transaction is expected to close before the scheduled ESPP purchase date, the current purchase period will be shortened and shares purchased in respect of such offering period will be exercised no later than five days prior to the closing.
- The ESPP will terminate at the closing.
- No action is required. Details on timing and how the refund will be processed will be shared closer to closing.

Are there tax implications I should be aware of?

- The announcement of the proposed transaction does not, by itself, create any immediate tax implications for employees.
- Tax treatment related to compensation, equity, or benefits depends on individual circumstances and on specific events (for example, payments, vesting, or transactions), not on the announcement alone. Employees should consult their personal tax advisors regarding their individual situation.

If I hold Payoneer shares, can I vote on the proposed acquisition? How does that work?

- Voting eligibility is determined based on actual share ownership as of a specific cutoff date, called the "Record Date" (to be set by the company).

- RSUs do not carry voting rights until they vest and are settled into shares.
- If you hold fully vested shares (including shares received from vested RSUs), you may have the right to vote as a shareholder. In many cases, shares are held through a broker, and voting may be facilitated or exercised through that broker depending on the custodial structure.
- If you are unsure whether your shares are eligible to vote, or how to participate, you should contact your broker directly for guidance on your specific account and voting process

Will candidates who have already accepted offers still start as planned?

- Accepted offers remain valid, and candidates scheduled to join before closing should proceed as planned and be onboarded using existing processes and timelines. Recruiters and hiring managers should proactively inform candidates that a transaction has been announced, using the approved messaging and resources, and avoid speculating about post-closing organizational changes.

Will backfills and approved roles still be opened?

- Hiring for roles that are already approved should continue as planned before closing, subject to normal business approvals.
- As is typical with transactions like this, some additional governance may apply to senior hires. Any such requirements will be communicated as part of the hiring process.

Are we offering candidates anything different because of the transaction?

- No changes are being made to offers, compensation, or standard hiring practices at this time. Offers should continue to be made in line with existing policies and approval processes.
- As is typical with transactions like this, some additional governance may apply to senior hires. Any such requirements will be communicated as part of the hiring process.

Can I share this information with candidates about the transaction, and what should I tell them?

- Yes. Managers and recruiters should use the approved resources when discussing the transaction and avoid speculating about post-closing organizational changes.
- You can be transparent that a proposed transaction has been announced and share high-level context on timing, including that:

- Payoneer is entering into an exciting new chapter of supporting the global ambitions of businesses worldwide.
- We have announced that we have entered into an agreement to be acquired by Nuvei, and anticipate closing the transaction in mid-2027.
- Between now and closing, it's business as usual at Payoneer.
- Post-closing, this transaction gives us more scale, more reach, and more ability to innovate in a market that continues to grow.

- As is typical with transactions like this, some additional governance may apply to senior hires. Any such requirements will be communicated as part of the hiring process.
- If you have any questions, talk to your HRBP.

^ Career development, performance, and priorities

Do I have to do something else now?

- No. Between now and closing, it is business as usual. Employees should continue executing on our 2026 OKRs, current objectives, and delivering for customers, unless instructed otherwise by their manager.

How does this change our OKRs, my goals, and how my performance will be evaluated?

- No changes are anticipated to OKRs, individual goals, or performance evaluation processes before closing. Performance will continue to be assessed based on existing objectives, expectations, and delivery.

If I'm asked to support deal work, how will that affect my regular responsibilities?

- The majority of employees should continue focusing on their regular responsibilities.
- Only a select group of employees will be asked to support specific deal-related activities, and if you're one of them, your manager will work with you to prioritize and adjust your workload accordingly.
- If deal support work creates conflicts or capacity concerns, please raise them with your manager so we can adjust priorities or bring in additional resources.

What should my priorities be right now / next 30 days / next 90 days? Should I still focus on my existing projects or are we shifting gears now?

- Your priorities remain your current role responsibilities, team objectives, and customer commitments. Any changes to priorities related to integration planning will be communicated clearly if and when they apply.
- Specific integration plans are being developed, between now and closing, and will be shared as they are ready.
- If you have questions about specific initiatives, please discuss with your manager.

Can I still apply for internal roles or change jobs?

- Internal job opportunities will continue to be available, subject to normal business needs and required approvals during the transaction period. Employees are encouraged to remain focused on their current roles while continuing to explore internal opportunities as appropriate.

Can I be promoted during the transaction period?

- Promotions are generally assessed as part of the annual career and compensation planning process. How that process is applied will depend on where we are in the transaction at the time.
- Outside of that process, promotions most commonly occur through internal job moves into higher-level roles. Those internal mobility-driven promotions can continue during the transaction period, subject to normal business needs and approval processes.

How will decisions be made for overlapping roles between the two organizations?

- Together with Nuvei, we will begin planning for how the combined company will operate following the closing, including with respect to organizational design, reporting structures, roles, and talent needs.
- This does not mean everything will change. Some areas may change very little, while others may be integrated with Nuvei's teams or functions over time.
- Maintaining strong talent and critical expertise will continue to be a priority as plans are developed.

How should we approach our current OKRs, and are we accounting for current disruptions and uncertainties when considering performance?

- Our focus remains the same: serve our customers, execute on our strategic plans, and deliver against our 2026 OKRs. We will assess performance with full awareness of the current environment we're navigating. That means evaluations will account for the context you're all operating in. We'll use judgment and fairness in how we measure progress, recognizing both what's within your control and what isn't.

^ Communication and staying informed

Why did we not find out sooner? Why wasn't I part of the "wall-crossed" group? How long have we known about this? Why didn't you give a straight answer at Town Hall when this was brought up?

- We understand why people may ask this. The company, as a general practice, does not comment on rumors or speculation, whether in Town Hall, employee conversations, or other communications.

- Potential transactions are subject to strict legal and regulatory requirements that limit who can be informed before a definitive agreement is signed and publicly disclosed. Those requirements exist to protect shareholders and ensure compliance with securities laws.
- A very limited number of individuals were “wall-crossed” because they had active roles and responsibilities in the deal process.

How will you keep us informed? Who can I ask questions to? Where can I go for resources? Who owns FAQ responses and approvals?

- Regular updates will be provided through Town Halls, Regional Ask Me Anything sessions (AMAs), the Weekly Wrap, and on the dedicated Payoneer Connect Transaction Hub.
- You may also submit questions via the Payoneer Connect Transaction Hub and FAQs will be updated on a periodic basis there.
- Your manager, team leaders, and HR Business Partner are available to discuss individual concerns.

If I'm feeling uncertain, what support is available? Who can I speak to if I'm concerned or have more questions?

- You can speak with your manager or people partner, or submit questions here.
- Regular updates will be posted on the Payoneer Connect Transaction Hub.
- You can also access confidential support through our Employee Assistance Program (EAP) which is available to all employees and offers independent advice and wellbeing support - Employee Assistance Program

Rules of engagement

Information sharing

Can I reach out to employees at the acquiring company (e.g., via LinkedIn or personal network)?

- No. Until the transaction closes, Payoneer and Nuvei must continue to act independently under applicable law. As such, other than as instructed by management, employees should not reach out to employees from Nuvei.

Are Payoneer employees able to apply for open roles at Nuvei?

- Payoneer and Nuvei are independent companies until closing.
- Payoneer employees are able to apply for roles at Nuvei. However, this would not be considered an internal transfer - any application would be treated as an external application under Nuvei's standard hiring process.
- Applications are handled confidentially and are not shared between the two companies.
- If you were to accept a role, this would be treated as leaving Payoneer and joining Nuvei, as the companies continue to operate separately until the transaction closes.

How should we think about collaboration with Nuvei between now and closing? Should we start building relationships with Nuvei teams and working together on projects?

- Until the deal is officially closed, Payoneer and Nuvei MUST operate as fully independent and separate companies.
- Specific integration plans will be developed and executed ONLY after the deal closes - involvement on the integration planning efforts will involve specific teams and explicit guidelines.

- Payoneer employees should NOT proactively reach out to Nuvei employees on business matters

What NOT to do before the transaction closes?

- Don't coordinate pricing, bids, marketing, or other core business activities with Nuvei
- Don't hold joint meetings or negotiations with customers, suppliers, or third parties without Payoneer legal approval
- Don't exchange non-public competitively sensitive information with Nuvei without Payoneer legal approval

What are guidelines around document creation (or any content put down in writing) before the transaction closes?

- Assume regulators will review any document or email about the deal, business strategy, or customer communications
- Avoid exaggeration or unsubstantiated claims about the deal, our business, or competitive landscape
- Don't suggest prices will rise / decrease or that customers will be worse / better off after the transaction
- Don't summarize legal advice or speculate on regulatory risk — consult the legal department instead
- For sensitive topics, direct questions to the Integration Team or your department's POC

- Access to data is governed by established security controls, regulatory requirements, and internal policies designed to ensure that information is protected and only accessible to authorized personnel.

What does this mean for our relationship?

- Between now and closing, it's business as usual - continue executing on our 2026 objectives and delivering for our customers and partners.
